TODAY'S COVER

Features a scene on the Oval, looking south toward Orton Hall, famed for its belfry. The building, completed in 1893, was named in memory of the university's first president, Dr. Edward Orton, professor of geology. The chimes in the tower have been a part of campus life since 1915. They ring every hour and can be heard for five miles. Program cover pictures have been taken by members of the university photography department.

This Is Southern Methodist University

Southern Methodist University is a coeducational institution comprised of nine schools, institutes, and colleges. Baccalaureate degrees are offered in 85 fields of study, masters' degrees in 60 fields, and doctoral degrees in nine. During its 52-year history, SMU has granted 33,000 degrees.

SMU was founded in 1911 and held its first classes in September, 1915. It is located in suburban University Park, a 15-minute drive from downtown Dallas, Texas. SMU is noted for the high quality of its academic programs, and its campus is known for the beauty developed by the unifying theme of modern Georgian architecture.

SMU was established in Dallas by The Methodist Church, and management of the University is vested by SMU's Board of Trustees in a Board of Governors of civic, business, and religious leaders (Methodist and non-Methodist).

President of SMU is Dr. Willis M. Tate, a 1932 graduate of the University.

SMU is composed of: The University College, the schools of Humanities and Sciences, Business Administration, Law, the Arts, the Graduate School of Humanities and Sciences, the Institute of Technology, Perkins School of Theology, and Dallas College (a downtown evening-school division).

SMU's academic programs are accredited by the top educational standardizing agencies in the country, and the University has one of the three chapters of Phi Beta Kappa in Texas (and the only one in the state at a church-related school).

As a private institution, SMU receives no tax revenues. Operating funds come from tuition and fees of students, income from investments, gifts for buildings and endowment, and annual contributions for current operating expenses from business firms and friends.

At its opening session in 1915, SMU had two buildings, 706 students, a 35-man faculty, an endowment fund of $279,178, and a 133-acre campus.

Today, these relatively few years later, the University inventories 80 buildings in its excellent $53,000,000 physical plant, total assets of $95,000,000, a faculty of 600, an endowment of $22,000,000, an on-campus enrollment that has averaged approximately 7,000 the past few years, and a 155-acre campus.

The University has become the second largest private university in the entire South and Southwestern geographic areas of the U.S. while establishing an enviable faculty-student ratio of 1-14.

SMU's educational resources include such impressive equipment as a major seismological observatory, the South's largest herbarium, a nuclear engineering laboratory, a closed-circuit educational television network of its own, the second largest university-library system in the Southwest, a $3,500,000 computing center, an $8,500,000 fine arts center, one of the nation's outstanding science information centers, and many other fine facilities for instruction and research.

Sixty of SMU's buildings have been constructed since the end of World War II, and SMU has assembled a faculty which includes a number of professors internationally renowned in their respective fields.

Although SMU is non-sectarian in its teaching, its relationship with The United Methodist Church fosters a high standard of moral and religious principles on campus. The faculty is composed of scholars from various churches, and in an average enrollment most of the religious faiths in America are represented. The student body is usually less than 50 percent Methodist.

Over the past few years SMU has drawn its students from all over Texas' 254 counties, from every state in the Union, from the District of Columbia, and from as many as 50 foreign countries in one year.

The University grows each year in national stature and now brings more than 40 per cent of its students from outside Texas. A decade ago, less than 10 per cent of SMU's students came from states other than Texas.

Prepared by Big Ten Service Bureau

The next big Ohio State alumni gathering will be held Monday morning.

636 strong.

We're proud to say there are 636 Buckeye graduates working with us. They have interesting, responsible positions all over the world.

Some Ohio State students know GM, too. By way of the GM Scholarship Plan. Ohio State University has participated in the program since it was established in 1955. Altogether, GM has awarded more than 5,000 scholarships to students at 250 colleges and universities.

636 Ohio State grads make for a lot of Buckeye spirit at GM. So go Ohio State! We'll see you Monday morning.

It's GM people who make the GM mark of excellence

What's so great about ROTC?

Check 'em.

☐ Great opportunity. You earn a commission while you earn your college degree. Graduate—you start at the top. Fulfill your military obligation as an Army officer. With officer's pay. Officer's privileges.

☐ Great advantages. Employers prefer a college graduate with service as an officer. Pay more to get him. Because he's a trained, experienced leader. Can handle heavier responsibilities.

☐ Great success. From the 5% of college men who had ROTC training have come 24% of our state governors, 28% of executives earning $100,000 to $325,000 per year, 10% of Congress, 15% of our ambassadors.

☐ Great guys. ROTC men are campus leaders—in ROTC, athletics, extracurricular activities. And they do better scholastically than non-ROTC students.

☐ Great extras. $50 per month in junior and senior years. Scholarships for outstanding students. Free flight training at over 125 colleges. Extra social activities—military balls, honor societies, bands, rifle teams.

Any way you look at it, there's a lot more going for you when you're in ROTC.

Your future, your decision . . .

choose Army ROTC.

Break your beard in right.

Right now your beard is in the formative stage.

You can shave it with a razor blade like your father does. And each time you do your beard will grow back a little more difficult. Until one day shaving's no longer a chore. It's an agony.

Look no further than your father's face for proof.

But fortunately, you're catching your beard at an early age. You can break it in to be just as shaveable 10 and 20 years from now as it is today.

With a REMINGTON® shaver.

And if you think the kind of shave we're selling won't be close enough for you, you're wrong.

Our new blades are sharper than anything that's been in an electric shaver before. And there's a dial that lets you adjust them for your skin and beard.

What's more, you can dial a REMINGTON electric shaver into a sideburn trimmer.

Admittedly, it costs more to buy our electric shaver than a razor and some blades.

But it's a good investment.

These next few years will determine how you and your beard will get along for the rest of your lives. ⁺SPERRY RAND™ ©1960, SPERRY RAND CORP.

FEELIN' GROOVY

Situation and Music

The "in" term today is Feelin' Groovy.

Romance and feelin' groovy go hand and hand in the different stages of the game Love Is Blue, Going Out of My Head, Can't Take My Eyes Off of You as four hearts evolve into two.

Everyone smiles when there is the opportunity to say Lay Some Happiness On Me.

Feelin' Groovy may also mean singing along with the hit tune from a new movie.

The spirit of Cabaret is another way of Feelin' Groovy.

We're proud...

that pHisoHex® has been selected as the antibacterial wash to be used by the U.S. Team for the 1968 Olympic Games!

A winning athlete takes special care of his skin. Above all, he protects it against bacteria that can cause infections and lead to missed practice sessions and games.

If you've ever tried to play with an infected blister on your heel or an abscess on your finger, then you know the role of healthy skin in sports. And that's why pHisoHex is an important part of an athlete's daily health routine.

pHisoHex is America's leading liquid antibacterial skin cleanser in homes and in hospitals. Used regularly in place of soap, pHisoHex produces a superclean skin and builds up an invisible antibacterial film of hexa-chlorophene to protect your skin against germs between washings.

And if you have problem skin, pHisoHex is often valuable. The antibacterial film it leaves on your face will ward off blemish-infecting bacteria. pHisoHex also helps to soften and wash away blackheads.

Use pHisoHex, the skin cleanser of winning athletes.

Made by Winthrop Laboratories, 90 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016. Available in drugstores in 5 oz. and 16 oz. plastic squeeze bottles.

"join"
America's Olympic Team

 You can be there at the Mexico City Olympic Games as a welcome contributor to the Olympic Fund. And be proud of it!

Training, transportation, housing and equipping America's top competitors in the Olympic Games is a major financial task. Because the United States Team is maintained almost entirely by public subscription, without government subsidy of any sort, the interest and support of every American is needed to reach the $3,500,000 goal.

If you haven't already done so, "join" in the Olympic movement now. Fill out the attached coupon, with your check for $5.00 or more and mail — today. In acknowledgment, the United States Olympic Committee will send you the handsome men's tie bar (by Danté) illustrated below. Or, if you prefer, you may select a women's bar pin with safety catch of the same design. For a $10.00 contribution, you will receive two gifts of your choice.

Isaly's Wonderful World of Ice Cream

IN 1910, our Founder, William Isaly, first made Ice Cream by hand-churning fresh cream and sugar in a wooden tub packed with ice and salt. Today, we freeze and package Ice Cream in our modern plants using the finest and most expensive ingredients, the strictest laboratory controls, and the skillful know-how of experienced employees. The result is an Ice Cream of fine quality and creamy goodness that is truly distinctive.

FIRST TEAM TO FLY

by ARCH NAPIER

IT WAS BACK in 1929 that a football coach first decided to fly his team to a game.

"Fly?" everyone asked. "Golly, where's he going to get all the planes? It would take the Graf Zeppelin to fly a whole football squad. And why fly? No sensible coach wants to field a team that's airsick!"

No, but you didn't build an athletic program in a little cow college by being too sensible, either. When Coach Roy Johnson came to the University of New Mexico in 1920, the enrollment was 227, and the football field didn't have any grass. The first day of practice each September was devoted to removing tumbleweeds, cacti, and some of the larger rocks. By 1927, Coach Johnson got tired of this; so, he borrowed a plow and a team, and planted grass. He watered it himself every morning. In his spare time, he taught Phys. Ed., coached boxing, baseball, track, golf, basketball, and—when there was water in the fire department pond—swimming. The pond lacked a diving board, but the students jumped out of a tree.

The football team played nearby schools like Montezuma Seminary and occasionally got as far west as Arizona. Then came the big invitation from Occidental College to play in the huge new bowl in Pasadena!

Oxy was evidently reaching far for an opponent. Stanford and UCLA had the Rose Bowl booked for the afternoon of October 12, so Occidental had to settle for Friday night. Few coaches wanted to play under the lights, which were a novelty at the time. (Newsmen were still writing columns with titles like: "Night Baseball and the Mosquito.")

New Mexico had never played at night, but Coach Johnson agreed to try. He felt that a trip to California—the first one in the school's history—would be very educational for his ranch kids . . . and it might help recruiting, too.

His decision came just at the time that Albuquerque was delirious with "airline fever." In the summer of 1929, Charles A. Lindbergh helped organize Transcontinental Air Transport (T. A. T.), the first line with a coast-to-coast schedule. The passengers travelled by train at night and by plane in the daytime, and the segment from Clovis, N. M., to Albuquerque and on to Los Angeles was entirely by air. The line had four or five huge Ford Tri-Motors that carried 12 passengers each.

Caught up in the fever, Coach Johnson decided that the team should fly to the big game, but as a wily strategist, he prepared public opinion by calling several press conferences to say that flying was out of the question. That started the citizens talking, and soon they were all begging him to reconsider. Slowly he gave in, and he finally agreed that every boy who brought a note from his parents—and promised to study on the trip—would have an airplane ride.

Yet T. A. T. didn't have enough space. Even by adding its one spare plane, it could provide only about 18 seats. You see, it did have a few other paying passengers.

"Eighteen seats will be fine," said the coach. "Because of the risk of air-sickness, we'll send our best eleven boys to Los Angeles by train, and the subs will go in the two planes. Then for the return trip, they will switch, and everyone will get a plane ride."

The train group left town quietly that Thursday at 3:45 a.m., and the subs assembled at the Albuquerque Airport before a cheering crowd the same morning at 10. One-fifth of the town's adult population was on hand to see history in the making. The first plane left on schedule, but the second one was delayed by a mysterious weight problem in its tail. A search revealed two student stowaways in the baggage compartment. When they were ejected, the second plane soared away, too.

The pilots took them across Arizona, buzzing herds of antelope and detouring over the Grand Canyon for fun, and the boys reached Los Angeles in time to motor out to Pasadena for a little practice under the lights. But where was the first team? Still on the train! They did not encounter the lights (henceforth described in school annals as "those glaring lights") until the night of the game itself.

Coach Johnson's precautions against air-sickness led to the great strategic error of the trip. The New Mexico starters had difficulty adjusting to the lights. Not once did they manage to catch and hold a punt.

The Oxy team was notably stronger, too, and the New Mexico boys were awed by the size of the Rose Bowl and the huge crowd of 17,000. The Pacific night fog rolled into Pasadena until Coach Johnson thought he was back in the Albuquerque Little Theatre playing the preacher in "Rain." The New Mexico Lobos slipped and slithered on cleats that were designed for sand, not wet grass.

Most troublesome was the fact that the ball was white and the Occidental jerseys were white, too. When Oxy carried the ball, it was well-nigh invisible. (Coach Johnson later persuaded his old coach, Fielding Yost of Michigan, to get the rules changed so that the ball makes a contrast.)

The game ended with a 26 to 0 loss for New Mexico, but everyone enjoyed the trip and the University was proud to have the first aerial team in history.

The air trip did help recruiting. In fact, the football teams became so successful that the regents felt they needed a coach from Notre Dame. So Coach Johnson was elevated to athletic director, and he didn't have to water the grass anymore.

The business manager on that flight, Tom Popejoy, later became president of the University and served with distinction until his retirement in June, 1968. T. A. T. eventually became Trans World Airlines, and now has much bigger planes. The trip across the West is much faster, but the pilots don't buzz antelope anymore.

When it's football time...
it's time to improve your lawn

Take advantage of the best time of the whole year to rejuvenate a lawn. The experts always fertilize in the fall, when natural growing conditions are best for the development of good, tight turf. You can literally help grass multiply itself with an October or November feeding. The benefits will be apparent this fall — and in next year's lawn. Truly a once-a-year opportunity!
